

Open Distance Learning. Work from home in a pandemic context. Teaching students on the COVID 19 period.

Friday 5 November 2021 14:20 (20 minutes)

Abstract - Working from home will become a more standardized and accepted thing; it will take a long time for people to return to the office, which will continue to focus on everything related to accessibility, remote technology and data retrieval. All those who were involved in transforming the teaching process from traditional to online, were not prepared for this and encountered a number of difficulties in this transformation. At this moment, both teachers and students had to adapt to the new way of teaching which is an alternative to consider in the future to the traditional system.
